6. Jay Sourwine of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee met with Messrs. Kirkpatrick, [redacted] Warner to discuss the possible appearance of General Cabell before the Subcommittee. Sourwine indicated the general subject, of course, was Communism in Latin America. We discussed the question of open versus executive session and it was agreed it would be open session. It was suggested that as to timing we aim for 15 October. There was mentioned the strengths of the various Communist Parties and front organizations and the tying in of these activities with the international movement. There was also mentioned a matter of coordination and training. There was also discussed the forthcoming Latin American Peoples Congress. Sourwine suggested the possibility of our preparing a list of questions which would be utilized at the hearing and for which we could prepare adequately. Sourwine also indicated that General Cabell should feel free to "duck" a question if necessary, indicating that such information should be handled in executive session. Sourwine also requested that approximately a week before the hearing that an outline be sent over for their study.
